SIR,

ap 4

With reference to your letter No 5732 dated the 5th March 1917, I have the honor to submit herewith a copy of the revised plan for improving the Palace Upparahally and Dobbspet, prepared in accordance with resolution No 6 of the City Improvement Committee in the meeting held on 11th April 1917, copy of which is enclosed The plan showing the original 'lay-out' approved by Government in their order No 7200-2, Ml.142-13-9 dated 27th March 1916 is also enclosed for reference

2 The main points of difference between the original lay-out and the revised are as follows

3 Palace Upparahally - (a) An open margin of 100 feet in width to be planted up with trees was shown in the original plar between the village and the Palace Upparahally Road with the object of keeping the village away from the main road and also screening it by a row of trees In the revised plan the margin of a uniform wiat of 100 feet is dispensed with and is replaced by two triangular plots

Submitting for Sanction the revised plan for the Palace Upparahalli and Dobbspet

A & B which may be laid out into garden plots and planted up to screen off the village from the main road

(b) Against 114 sites provided for in the original plan 92 sites are provided in the revised plan The reduction is due to some portion of the rocky site not being laid out into house-sites in the revised plan on account of the difficulty of providing efficient drainage therein 92 sites seem to be sufficient to meet the demand

(c) The roads and conservancy lanes are made to run in the revised plan North to South for providing better drainage facilities than if they are laid out East to West as in the original plan

(d) The newly aligned village is separated from the quarters of Palace servants - for whom 22 sites are provided - by a wider belt of open space to minimise chances of contamination.

22

4 Dobbspet - (a) In the revised plan the whole village is proposed to be re-aligned with roads and conservancy lanes running North to South while in the former a portion of the existing village had been proposed to be retained and the roads had been laid out East to West The new alignment, while providing for 108 new sites, against 100 in the old plan, is decidedly an improvement on the former lay-out

108

5 I request that you may be so good as to obtain the approval of the Government to the revised plan, so that the detail estimates may be prepared on these lines

I have the honor to be,

Sir,

Your most obedient servant,

Honorary President
